

House Memorial Services.

The House of Representatives is to meet today at noon to hold memorial services in memory of the late Representative Serrano E. Payne and Edwin A. Morrill, Jr., of New York.

MINE WORKERS RE-ELECT.

International Officers Chosen to Serve Another Two Years.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., February 6.—The three international officers of the United Mine Workers of America have been re-elected for a term of two years, according to the report of the tellers, which was made public late this afternoon. President John P. White and Vice President Frank J. Hayes had no opposition, while William Green was opposed for re-election as secretary-treasurer by W. L. Simms of Linton, Ind. Green received 122,768 votes to Simms' 45,378.

The international executive board completed a five-day session late today. Secretary Green said only routine business of no general importance was considered.

Marshall Field, 3d, Weds.

PRAISE SULLIVAN'S DOMINICAN COURSE

Two State Department Agents Say Vick Stirred Up All the Trouble.

BRYAN AND TUMULTY ARE STILL TO BE HEARD

American Minister Said to Have Promised a "Free and Fair Election."

James M. Sullivan, American minister to the Dominican Republic, has proved an able diplomatic agent, according to the testimony of the only two witnesses heard yesterday by James D. Phelan, senator-elect, who is sitting as special commissioner investigating the official conduct of Minister Sullivan.

One of these witnesses testified at the hearing, which is being held at the Shoreham Hotel, that he believed all of the scandal connected with Minister Sullivan's service had been stirred up by W. W. Vick, former receiver general of Dominican customs, on account of personal dislike, and he characterized Vick as a "disappointed office seeker."

Commissioner Phelan announced at the close of yesterday's hearing that he hoped to conclude the hearings here Tuesday, to be resumed in the Dominican Republic. The hearing tomorrow is at 3:15 o'clock. The important witnesses still to be heard in Washington are Joseph Tumulty, secretary to the President; Secretary Bryan and Representative Hamilton of New Jersey.

Dickey and Mann Testify.

Harry S. Dickey, who investigated for the State Department the accounts of John L. Mann, former director general of public works of the Dominican Republic, and Charles H. Albright, vice and deputy consul general in the republic, were the two witnesses.

Mr. Dickey said he had made a particular investigation at the instance of Secretary Bryan, and charged that Timothy J. Sullivan, cousin of the minister, had been involved in securing contracts for work under the Dominican government. His report on this investigation, showing that in one case Minister Sullivan had written a letter to the Dominican Republic setting forth that he wished to disclaim any knowledge of the bid of T. J. Sullivan on a bridge contract, and did not want any partially shown him on account of their relationship, was placed in the record.

His testimony also put in the record that Minister Sullivan had saved the government more than $21,000 on light-bulb vouchers by careful examination before signing them as he had been expected to do.

Minister Sullivan, said Dickey, "is all right. He is a good man for the place. He gets along with those people down there as well as any American could."

Mr. Dickey denied that he had ever charged that the National City Bank was behind the agitation against Sullivan, saying he thought it grew out of the enmity toward the minister of W. W. Vick.

Sullivan Became Unpopular.
After placing in the record documents from the State Department Mr. Albright testified that Minister Sullivan had become unpopular with certain factions because of his conduct in relation to a revolution in the island. He said that Sullivan had promised that the United States would guarantee a "free and fair election" after the revolution, and that the people were dissatisfied with the election when it was held. He said that Minister Sullivan in these matters was but carrying out instructions from the State Department and had not a free hand.

He said he had never heard that Sullivan was responsible for bloodshed or the destruction of property, as had been said.

Mr. Albright said that Sullivan was untiring in his work as minister, and had accomplished many reforms in the conduct of the department of public works.

TO BENEFIT UNEMPLOYED.

Suggested Clearing House Between Schools and Business Houses.

CHICAGO, February 6.—Establishment of great central clearing houses between schools and business houses as a means of reducing economic losses and decreasing the number of unemployed was urged today by Raymond Booth of the Chicago Association of Commerce at the closing session of the first annual convention of the Vocational Educational Association of the middle west.

"The hire and fire system of employment which is so common in our system of industry today entails enormous loss," said Mr. Booth. "The cost of advertising, interviewing applicants, supervising new workers, spoiled work, small production and low efficiency during the training period are a real burden to industry. By establishing great central clearing houses between the schools and employers, the product of the schools can be assimilated to mutual advantage. The ranks of the unemployed will be lessened, the fitting of the right man in the right place. The economic saving to business will be enormous."

"Co-operation between the schools and the employer is a vital factor in the solution of a large number of our present industrial problems."

COMMISSIONER KUTZ SHOWS DISPOSITION OF TAX PAYMENTS

A statement showing the disposition of tax payments made to the District of Columbia was read before the Park View Citizens' Association Friday night by Engineer Commissioner Kutz. In his address before the association Maj. Kutz stated that the framing of the annual budget is one of the most complex problems with which the Commissioners have to deal.

With the view of showing local taxpayers just how their money is expended Maj. Kutz presented a statement for the fiscal year 1914, showing appropriations made, including deficiencies appropriated for during that year, with the amount and proportional expenditures of each group to the total budget. PLANNING FOR VOTERS TO REGISTER BY MAIL Movement Indorsed by Executive Committee of League of Republican Clubs in Washington.

Registration of voters by affidavit and mail while they are in the government service in Washington and are voting residents of other states was approved by the executive committee of the League of Republican State Clubs, at a meeting held Friday night. The constitutional convention of the state of New York will consider this matter at its meeting in April. Other states are expected to propose constitutional amendments where the constitutions do not make provision for such legislation by the legislatures. The purpose in view is stated to be to save to voters the expense and loss of time incurred in making two trips to New York, one to register in election years. Under the present law most of them make one trip for the purpose of registering and for the privilege of casting the ballots. By the provision suggested but one journey will be necessary.

Plan Convention in Washington.

The executive committee also organized a plan to obtain for Washington the next convention of the National Republican League. The convention will be held in the near future, and several hundred delegates will be present from all sections of the Union. John G. Capers of Washington is general secretary of the national league. The district of Columbia League of States is offered by O. A. Phelps of Connecticut, president; E. C. Graham of Washington, vice president; C. A. Schull, secretary; C. M. Shinn, corresponding secretary, and T. Lincoln Townsend, treasurer.

Evelyn Towed Into Port.

NEW YORK, February 6.—The American steamship Evelyn, which went aground near Bermuda January 6 while conveying a cargo of horses from the port to Italy, reached here today in tow of the coast guard cutter Mohawk. The Evelyn, after being floated, started back to New York, and was caught in a gale and disabled. Wireless calls yesterday brought the cutter to her assistance off the Jersey coast. The vessel was leaking badly on her arrival here.

First to Sail Canal From West.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 6.—The Norwegian ship Springbank, laden with wheat for Denmark, will be the first sailing vessel to traverse the Panama canal from the Pacific to the Atlantic. Clearance papers were given her today.

BESSIE DESCRIBES BELGIAN PEOPLE

German Military Governor Calls Them Politically Undisciplined Children.

CIVIL COURTS HELPING GOVERNMENT OF ARMY

General Defends Invasion as War Measure Necessary to Check the French.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, February 6, via London, 2 p.m.—"The Belgians," said Gen. von Bissing, the new German governor general, in an interview today with a representative of the Associated Press, "are politically undisciplined children. They believe their liberation from German rule may come at any moment, and they are strengthened in this belief by the French newspapers as well as by some neutral newspapers which continually are smuggled in."

"When, as frequently happens," continued the governor general, "a favorable wind brings the sound of cannon to the city the Belgians believe the longed-for day has come. On several occasions the very date for the return of King Albert has been set, and no number of disappointments seem to crush the hopes of the people."

Gen. von Bissing is seventy-one years of age. He is somewhat above the middle height, spare and wiry, and with features and demeanor of one who has been through a great deal of life. He is very keen but very severe. He strengthened this impression by his answer to the question whether the Belgians had attempted to throw obstacles in his way. "Only in petty ways," he replied, "by pin pricks here and there. Undoubtedly they would like to see the German flag fly, but I should immediately adopt very drastic measures."

Belgian Official Attitude.

"What has been the attitude of the Belgian government officials toward the German government?" the governor general was asked. "The municipal officials," Gen. von Bissing replied, "generally co-operated with us from the beginning. The higher officials took a divided standpoint, while some absolutely refused to have anything to do with us. Officials of the department of justice, on the other hand, realizing the importance of proper functioning of the judicial branch of the government, worked loyally with the military government from the first."

"We have had much trouble with the postal and railway officials. The former are being gradually won over to co-operate with us, but the latter, feeling that the railways are an important adjunct of warfare—a conception which is quite true and justifiable—have generally refused to do anything to help us. They feel it would be unpatriotic and disloyal to assist us, even indirectly, in carrying war against their own land."

"The Belgian civil courts," the general said, "still exist and they try ordinary cases of breaches of the law of the land. All crimes against soldiers of the military government are tried by so-called military courts, which are military courts presided over by German judges."

Undisciplined Politically.

"It has been asserted," said the interview, "that the Belgians were misled and betrayed by their own government and even that they have, without their knowledge, come under the complete control of the British and French financial world. Does your excellency believe this to be true?"

Gen. von Bissing's answer to this was the paragraph quoted in the foregoing. He said that the Belgians are politically undisciplined children. "What inference was to be drawn from this answer the general did not indicate. He also left unanswered the question whether he believed that if Belgium or a part of that country eventually became a part of Germany it would ever be possible completely to Germanize the country, making a harmonious portion of the German empire."

Defends Invasion.

"Not to have marched into Belgium would have been a very grave mistake," he replied. "If we had not done so France and England would have long before the war made it apparent that some sort of an alliance existed between Belgium and France and Great Britain. The last named two would perhaps have found some pretext to make it appear that they were coming as allies and that they were not violating Belgium's neutrality, but they would have come."

Speaking of American relief in Belgium, in reply to a query whether such help really was needed, Gen. von Bissing said: "It was and still is necessary in the highest degree."

"There have been suggestions," said the representative of the Associated Press, "that the German army has been using some foodstuffs sent to Belgium by Americans. What has your excellency to say to that?"

"Such assertions must be denied absolutely. We are not even using any Belgian products at the present time, but are drawing the entire food supply of our soldiers from Germany. It was only during the first days of occupation that we lived off the country in any degree. As for the American supplies, it is highly important that they keep coming regularly. We are working harmoniously with the American commission and the report that the German government was so much of an obstacle in the way of the American relief workers is false."

"ALL FOR ONE, ONE FOR ALL."

Watchword of German Nation Revealed by Dr. Dernburg.
DETROIT, February 6.—The watchword of the German nation during the war has been "all for one, one for all," declared Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, former imperial German minister for the colonies, who witnessed a mass meeting held here tonight under the auspices of the local branch of the German Red Cross Society. "German State Ideals" was the subject of his address. Another speaker was former Gov. E. B. Coker of Texas.

WOULD FREE NAVAL STORES.

Effort to Have Turpentine and Rosin Taken Off Contraband List.

SAVANNAH, Ga., February 6.—Naval stores interests of the south have determined to call directly to the English government in an effort to have spirits of turpentine and rosin taken off the contraband of war list. It was stated here that Edmund S. Nash of New York, former president of the American Naval Stores Company, is said from New York today for London to present the case of the southern naval stores producers and factors to the British authorities.
